Right now, in corporate America, there are hundreds of decisions being made about what to do with millions of square feet of excess or unwanted office furniture. OFR, the Midwest's largest office furniture liquidator, is the company that provides the most sustainable solutions for repurposing and recycling that furniture.

We provide hands-on project management, efficient use of labor, and the highest possible landfill diversion rates.

That furniture then goes on to become the high-quality desks, cubicles, chairs and tables that fill our warehouse stores, furnishing Midwest corporations with at a fraction of the cost of new. As small and midsized businesses move, change, and grow, our huge inventory and refurbishing services make office space changes easy and affordable. We are a full-service office furniture dealership with all the furniture related services any workspace needs from initial space planning to final installation.

And yes, we are open to the public! The individual buyer shopping for home office furniture (or sometimes just home furniture!) will find a huge selection and helpful service at our three warehouse stores.
